GE iWERKS Theater

New multi-purpose performance venue

The new GE Theater was built adjacent to the historic Proctors Theater in Schenectady, and is an integral part of Schenectady's revitalization of its once vibrant downtown business and entertainment district.

U.W. Marx Construction Company provided general contracting services to construct this new 450-seat multi-purpose space. The 'black box'-type theater was designed to display iWERKS™ Extreme Screen showings of 3-D movies as well as provide a home for Proctors' 'iLearn' program for schoolchildren.

U.W. Marx's scope of work included the structural foundation and two floors of complete interior construction.

The space was constructed with retractable theatre seats, so that it can also be made available for smaller cabaret events, lectures, trade shows and similar events.
