U.W. Marx has provided construction services for multiple projects on the the upstate NY campus of Union College in Schenectady, NY. U.W. Marx has served as Design-Builder, construction manager and general contractor for the school since first constructing the Yulman Theater for the Performing Arts in 1995.

Designed as a state-of-the-art teaching lab for theater arts and sciences, the Yulman Theater for the Performing Arts is an integration of complex mechanical and electrical systems and modern performance space.

U.W. Marx constructed the new David Viniar Athletic Center in 2004. The Design-Build project constructed a new 1,000 seat multi-use facility connected to the east end of Union's Memorial Field House.

Recent projects have included 'summer slammer' renovations of the Reamer Campus Center and the Social Sciences Building. The scope of work at the Reamer Campus Center included renovation of the upperclasses' dining facilities, the student activities center, and a number of the school's business offices. The dining facility renovation included the campus center's coffee bar, rathskeller, kitchen and food services, and student activity desks.

The Social Sciences Building renovation involved extensive mechanical work in the basement of the Social Sciences Building at Union College. The ten-week project required aggressive scheduling, and all work was completed in time for the start of the fall 2007 semester.
